Product Description

Hinton Cast Iron Electric Stove

The cast iron bodies are produced on a DISAMATIC, high-pressured sand-casting machine in the EU. The same process used for making automobiles and other machinery. Thus, the high-quality cast iron stoves are built to last and endure just about anything you can throw at them, literally.

The only corners that are cut are off the sustainably sourced oak logs from England. They are hand cut, scorched and each log set into place to bring the ultimate fireplace setting to your home.
